

This week has been extremely creative. We have been learning about the Colour Monster and our emotions and we have used drama, yoga, creative arts and lots of imagery to express ourselves and learn the very important concepts. The Learning has also linked to maths and counting and sorting activities.

The drama workshop was just amazing and Ian from KIC Theatre showed the children how to act out The Colour Monster in such a fun way. Ian has been coming to Barham school for 25 years and I can see why. It was wonderful and we really do have some actor and actresses already in Wrens.

The children showed excellent maths skills this week, counting and choosing the correct numeral to represent the quantity of monsters.

The children have had a lovely time playing on the field at lunch times, they love playing with the older children in the sunshine and are playing in their new wren's friendship groups.

We have had big foam shapes and plastic building blocks in our garden and the children have been making cars and towers. Some made hats from the plastic blocks - they were extremely funny - they made robots heads and astronaut helmets and played in the garden wearing them.

Reading books

If you have not already seen, I have explained a little about how to use the picture reading books on Seesaw, so please take a look if you are unsure.

Reading books will be changed on a Tuesday and Friday at school. We also put a picture story book from our book area into your child's bag on a Friday for you all to enjoy.

Send me a message if you have any questions regarding reading, but the overall importance is that it is a fun experience for all.

Phonics

Again, I have posted about phonics on Seesaw - please refer to this. It is really important that you use the pure phonic sound when practising with your child at home. I have sent some useful links on Seesaw for you to watch which should help.
