

This term our learning will be centred around celebrations. We will be learning about celebrations and festivals that are important to us and also others celebrated around the world.

This week we have been learning about the Hindu festival, Holi. It is also known as the festival of colour. We have learnt about how Holi was originally celebrated in India but now is celebrated all around the world. As part of the celebrations Hindus might visit a temple, enjoy special meals, dance and throw colourful powders at each other, this is a spring festival and celebrates light over dark and good over bad.

This week in phonics we have been learning the sounds: j,v and w.

We have been practicing recognising the tricky words: he, she, A.

In Maths this week we have been comparing amounts. We have been using the words more, less, fewer and equal to describe the different amounts. We have also been creating repeating colour patterns.

The Wrens have coped really well coming through the main gate and are all showing more independence sorting their things out in the cloakroom.

I am looking forward to seeing you all at parents evening next week (Tuesday and Thursday). Come through the main gates and head to the hall, Ms Maali and Mrs Potter will bring you down to Wrens when it is your time. We only have 10 minute slots so please try to arrive on time, as we have to keep on time to get through everyone and not keep other parents waiting.
