

This week we have read a Non-fiction book called the Big Book of the Blue, each day we have read a few pages and we have all learnt lots of new interesting facts about lots of different sea creatures. We also spoke about the features of a non-fiction book. (Contents and Index page)

This week the children have been writing lots of tricky words in the sand. Have made sharks, created jelly fish tentacles using paper chains. Sorted animals that live on land and in the sea. We have also reflected back on some of the year and thought about things we are good at, things we enjoy, the friends we have made and what we are looking forward to, when we become Jays.

We are now into a review part of phonics, for the next couple of weeks no new sounds will be introduced and we will continue to revisit all that they have learnt over the year.

In Maths this week we have played 2D shape games, taking in turns to describe 2D shapes for the rest of the class to guess. We also have played lots of different games to support the learning of number bonds to 5 and 10.

Dates to remember:
