Outside of the curriculum	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Bikeability - Class photos -- We invited Mr J back to visit the class so that they could see that moving on never means forgetting, to ease with transition - We took part in an NHS survey looking at our physical and emotional mental health - The last of the school visits took place in school this week, with most of the children having now met a member of staff from their secondary school

Another busy week and another week that has now faded away, leaving us with just four weeks left of the summer term. PE returns on Monday, and we should be all back to normal in regards to that. It is getting to that point in the year where the children are now more than ready to move to their secondary schools and feel they are becoming too big for Barham, we completely understand where they are coming from but we ask that all the children continue working hard and be respectful, sensible and kind to everyone inside of Barham, so that the school environment remains a lovely place to learn. We had great informative chat with Peter Norton from the NHS who had a chat about transitions to secondary school, what to expect and staying safe, I hope the children took lots away from the chat and they feel a little more informed than already.

I hope you have a great weekend; I can't wait to hear about all your adventures on Monday!

Best Wishes,

Miss Kelly
